To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing this letter to let you know how happy I am with the building you built for me. I have been very impressed with your commitment to provide me with a building that would meet the needs of Environment Control now and for many years to come. It was evident to me from our first meeting all the way through to our last meeting that you had my best interest in mind and would do everything you could to build a facility that we all would be proud to work in each day.

I would especially like to thank Jim Fultz and Jeff Bettinger for their quick response to all of my questions. I am sure that there were times when they were very busy but they always stopped to take time with me and explain what was going on. Since this was my first building project I had many questions that they answered. They were also very helpful to Bruce Carlson who is one of my tenants.

I would be happy to recommend Van Con to anyone looking for a design/build company. I would also be willing to show our building to anyone that would like to see a sample of your work.

Sincerely,

Ted Pauling
